adolescence represents a critical period characterized by significant biological psychological and social transformations that profoundly influence an individual's future. This pivotal stage not only offers a prime opportunity to establish healthy lifestyle habits but also exposes young individuals to the potential acquisition of risky behaviors such as substance abuse with far-reaching consequences for their future wellbeing because during this stage their brain is still developing. Adolescents are known for their impulsive decision-making tendencies which become a notable risk factor within specific contexts. Understanding the complex interplay between these risk contexts and the behaviors exhibited during this phase is vital to comprehensively addressing adolescent health.

Sexual assault, sex trafficking, and child abuse affect millions of women and girls globally each year. This two-volume set covers a broad scope of topics from violence against girls before birth in childhood and throughout women's adult lives. Millions of women around the world, some data suggests as many as three in every four women, face violence against them throughout their lifetimes. The incidences range from the earliest stages of life with infanticide to child trafficking, sexual assault, and domestic violence to the end of life by elder abuse. This two-volume set provides a comprehensively broad treatment of the global problem of violence against women, addressing less commonly discussed subjects such as domestic violence in lesbian couples, abuse within the context of war crimes, and the incidence of violence and abuse against women internationally as compared to within the United States.

The study of addiction draws primarily on methods and approaches to understanding, treating, and supporting addiction drawn from traditional approaches, the foundations of which focus on responses seen across groups but often neglecting to account for the role the individual differences play in understanding and treating addiction. It is clear from the literature that there is often a lack of consensus in both understanding and treating those struggling with addiction. Individual differences, therefore, whilst not always conforming to the accepted model for developing theoretical interpretations and practice in the field, are key to successful outcomes in treating addiction.
